“ Aunt Dorothy was my role model for being an independent career woman. She absolutely sparkled. We talked on the phone constantly. When I was little she saved makeup and perfume samples for me, then showed me how to use them -- and taught me to take one piece of costume jewelry off after I thought I was completely dressed. Mom and Dad hung a painting she'd made of ballet dancers in my bedroom; and I would stare at, fascinated, every night before sleeping. She was my mom's best friend and my uncle's strongest supporter. She taught me the importance of sending thank-you notes, and always to buy candy on sale after the Gregorian holidays. She sang along to 'We Will Rock You' on the radio, just to annoy me. She accepted herself but wasn't afraid of change: she even got her ears pierced in her 60s! Aliquippa was her home and her world; and she loved it and everyone in it. I miss her more than I can say.

She sounds like she was quite an amazing person. May her memory be a blessing to all her family and friends.
