“ Never was there a better man than Loui Battalini..I honestly don't have the words available to drive that point home..In a town full of tough guys we was the toughest man i ever met he would literally give you the shirt off his back and then buy you another one..i would always joke that we could be at a gas station in Michigan @330 in the morning and loui would know the cashier and at least two customers..as a child he single handedly saved my life and protected me as best he could,, im alive today because he cared when no one else did and my biggest regret in life is that i didnt do more to honor him with the life he gave me..he taught me everything i know and Any & Everything thats good about me came from him..i always said that if it ever had to make a choice to see my biological father or loui one last time, for me it would be no choice at all because he was my dad and i love him more than he could of ever possibly known...Michael J David
